PROJECTS

QUOTH THE RAVEN   Live | GitHub Repo

An e-commerce app inspired by Barnes and Noble and other booksellers.

- Created a custom Python decorator using the functools module to authenticate administrators to prevent non-admin users from accessing data and functionality designated for admin only.
- Manipulated Redux state to render React components without leaving the admin portal, allowing for easy navigation to view collections, create a collection, and enter new book data.
- Introduced a blur filter with CSS to conditionally hide book reviews containing spoilers which protects the user from unwanted spoilers, while giving them the option to view the review with a single click.

JEANAK EATS   Live | GitHub Repo

A food delivery app in the style of Uber Eats.

- Implemented a filter on the landing page filtering for price range on the backend and sorting on the front-end to allow the user to filter restaurants by price and sort in order of restaurant ID, popularity, or ratings.
- Constructed robust seed data to thoroughly test at-scale while providing the user a clear vision of the app for demo purposes.
- Designed the menu items features with the user experience in mind with hover and click animations as well as easy navigation back to the restaurant from which they are choosing meals.
